SOCIAL STUDIES PHILOSOPHY

The purpose of Social Studies is to prepare students to become compassionate, responsible and effective citizens of their local and global communities.

Powerful learning in social studies encourages students to think critically and consider multiple perspectives as they interpret the world and develop understandings that endure beyond the classroom.

Through systematic inquiry into meaningful and relevant content that integrates civics, economics, geography, and history, our goal is to empower students with:

- the knowledge of the past to understand the present and plan for the future
- the skills to make educated and ethical decisions
- the dispositions to innovate, collaborate and contribute to a just and sustainable world

1 References: